DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 16-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McMillan in view of Farris in further view of Official Notice.

McMillan teaches a web information kiosk. In particular a user initiated a request for information on a client computer directed towards a server (column 3; lines 66-67). The request for information is then verified to see if the request is from an approved list (column 4; lines 4-7). The request can be in the form of a URL. Examiner notes that the approved list represents 1st information. The request represents 2nd information. And the verifying represents comparing 2nd information with 1st information.

McMillan does not specifically teach a protocol converter. Farris teaches a protocol translator that places a control signal from a subscriber (terminal computer) in suitable form for normal use in advanced intelligent networks. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of McMillan to include a translator for placing the signal from the client computer in suitable for normal use.

McMillan does not teach an accounting processor. Examiner notes that McMillan does teach the system allow advertisers that want home pages accessible in high traffic areas to target specific regions (column 3; lines 1-5). Examiner takes Official Notice that it is old and well known for to charge advertisers for displaying ads. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of McMillan to include an account processor to charge an advertiser a fee each time an ad is requested and displayed, as is old and well known in the art, in order for the owner of the kiosk unit to make money.

Conclusion

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 16-36 are have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
